Ainsley Plant Gets Write-up In Chronicle

The following interesting item appeared in a section of the San Francisco Chronicle of last Sunday, devoted to canners and the canning industry. This section was printed in recognition of the convention of the California Canners' league, which was in session at Del Monte from Sunday to Wednesday of this week:

AINSLEY FIRM KNOWN FOR ITS FRUIT SALADS

Campbell Plant Has Built Enviable Reputation in Great Britain

Back in 1886 there arrived in California J. C. Ainsley, who was determined to use his knowledge of business and his ambition to establish an organization which would have the opportunity of growing with the state. Shortly after his arrival the J. C. Ainsley Packing company was organized and commenced operations in a small way at Campbell, one of the beauty spots of the great Santa Clara valley. The plant started to pack available fruits and continued in this business for many years, each year showing consistent progress toward the important [illegible] California's greatest industry.

Several years ago a suggestion brought about a remarkable evolution in the fruit packing business. This was to the effect that a combination of fruits in a single pack may prove to be, not only appetizing but popular. This was about the time that "fruit salads" started to be generally known throughout the nation's households and while the suggestion is said to have come from England, the idea met with favor here at once.

The firm also has another unusual distinction. While strictly an American institution it is probably as well known in Great Britain as it is here. This indicates that its products, among the first to be shipped to the United Kingdom in quantities, won instant favor and have firmly established themselves as staples for the people of that commonwealth.

Pioneering such an uncommon idea as "fruits for salad" held its problems and its more pleasurable experiences. Its success brought the satisfaction which comes from something well done and it also held compensation in that this product could be packed during the off season. In this manner the J. C. Ainsley Packing company also helped to solve the community problem of idle workers, for through this activity it was able to keep a steady working force for a long period of time when most other plants had closed down for the season.

Today the Ainsley brands of "fruits for salads" are to be found available almost anywhere and the same delicious flavor which entices one in California, the home of the fruit, may now be enjoyed in almost any section of the world where California canned goods are to be obtained.

New High Site Will Be Picked By District Vote

A special meeting of the Campbell Union High School Board of Trustees was held last evening to discnss the immediate need of a new high school building. Petitions were received asking for a bond election this spring and the board appeared to favor this action unanimously.

The board also agreed that the present site is inadequate for a new building and announced that they were prepared to receive offers of sites of from fifteen to twenty acres

It seems probable that the location of the school will be settled by district vote.

At the same meeting a grand piano was purchased for use in the music department.

Campbell's Pioneer Athletic Team

Entire World Will Hear Voice Of Herbert Hoover

BROADCAST OF INAUGURATION CEREMONIES TO BE ON AN UNPRECEDENTED SCALE.

The voice of Herbert Hoover delivering his inaugural address March 4, will be heard around the globe.

A detailed description of the proceedings including an eye-witness story of the inaugural parade four miles long will be heard by fifty million listeners in the United States, and millions of others in foreign countries.

"Recently we have had a striking demonstration of international broadcasting," says M. H. Aylesworth of the National Broadcasting company. "A speech by the President of the United States, heard all over this country, was followed, within a few seconds, by a program coming to us from England.

"American programs are heard with regularity in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, New Zealand and South America. We have arrived at the point where radio communication to the masses of other nations is an accomplished fact.

"Frequently British programs are heard here with almost the clarity of a local station. These programs are received here in the late afternoon, although they are produced in England five hours later in the evening—London time.

"On March 4, the next President and Vice President of the United States will be inducted into office. A detailed description of the proceedings will be sent to virtually every nation in the civilized world, and the voice of our chief executive will be heard around the earth, through rebroadcasts by powerful foreign stations.

"As a part of the inaugural ceremonies there will be a parade, four miles long, in which representatives will participate. Every state in the Union will have a delegation among the 20,000 persons who will participate.

"The radio audience in the United States and abroad, will hear descriptions of the parts that their representatives have in the celebration. They will hear the bands, the bugles and the fife drum corps as they pass the reviewing stand in which will be seated the newly inaugurated President and his official party.

All the color and enthusiasm of this quadrennial American ceremony will be brought to the world; all the solemnity of the occasion when a new President stands with his hand on the Bible and takes the oath of office.

"The world will hear the voice of America, and we believe that the world will be more closely cemented to us through such broadcasts international as these."

Dashes In Front Of Car; Broken Leg

Frank Ramos, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ramos, Gilman avenue, Campbell was hit by an automobile yesterday and is today suffering with a broken leg. Mrs. Anna Bernardasci was driving her car east on Campbell avenue when the lad rushed from the Busy Bee across the street and Mrs. Bernradasci could not avoid him. Frank's right leg was broken above the knee. Dr. Merrill was immediately called and the injured lad was taken the O'Connor Sanitarium. Ralph Hyde and E. R. Kennedy also gave their assistance in the emergency.

Exceptionally Large Crowd Present At Annual Program

A greater percentage than usual of older residents of the valley were in attendance at the thirty-fifth annual celebration in Campbell Friday, and by that and the program made the day a real success. The weather was ideal, adding much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

As chairman of the day, Harry C. Smith presided, both morning and afternoon.

Dr. Mariana Bertola of San Francisco, one of the leading welfare workeres on Governor Young's commission, was speaker of the day, choosing "The Spirit of the Pioneers" as her subject.

In a forceful and clear cut manner she outlined the strong points of the pioneers in their will to do things, overcome difficulties and endure hardships. They also held steadfast to their religion and reverence for God, making them the truer friends and better citizens. The reverence for God, the respect for law and order and the due regard for parents and home are ideals to be held before the youth of today, to instill in them the true pioneer spirit, and unless that is done this rising generation is the loser.

Another of the enjoyable features of the program was the quartet numbers by the mixed quartet, Mrs. William Boettcher, soprano, Miss Ethel White, alto, Homer DeWitt Pugh, tenor, and Chas. Pugh, baritone, accompanied by Mrs. Pugh. They were most generous with their talent.

The high school band and orchestra, directed by A. A. Thielke, made the home folks proud of them by their musical numbers, and the chairmen expressed the sentiments of all in thanking them for their part on the program.

At noon the most popular place was none other than the cafeteria, where the high school P.T.A. served a most delightful luncheon.

At the afternoon program Mrs. Marian Jenkins Howes led in several community songs, Mrs. G. S. Robson presiding at the piano. Elliott Hall of San Jose delighted the audience with two readings quite fitting to the occasion.

Leroy Anderson made a short analysis of the present water situation and the work being done by the conservation association.

Frank Abernathy gave an interesting narrative of the early days of California, dealing particularly with this part of the State.

Miss Irene Gilson gave two very pretty violin solos, accompanied by Miss Collison at the piano.

Rev. W. C. Robbins read from a paper published in Jan. 1800, of the funeral of George Washington. This paper has been kept well preserved all these years and is still in very good print and color.

The "traveling flag" of the Relief Corps was presented by Mrs. Wallace of Los Gatos, who gave a brief story of its travels. It was on the platform when Mr. Hoover made his acceptance speech at Palo Alto. It is estimated that it will arrive in Washington in about ten years, there to be placed in a museum with the history of its travels.

While this program was being held the single men were demonstrating their diamond superiority over the "old men" by a score of 8 to 5.

Singles lined up: Antone Bonaccorso, Jack Monte, Elver Clark, Stephen Merrill, Jack Murdock, Merle Gardner, Frank Ferro, Carl Angelo and George Gurkovitch. The Benedicts: Harold Morton, C. B. Field, C. Silva, H. Oliver, L. E. Vaughn, C. A. Kennedy, Fred Heinzen, Lister and H. Brackett.

Campbell carried off the honors in the two basketball games that followed, defeating the Mt. View 130's 15 to 14 and the unlimited in a walkaway, 27 to 13.

EVENING SHOW

'Twas quite some show that those in charge of the firemen's benefit had arranged for the evening. Much of its success was due to the untiring efforts of Harry White of the Busy Bee and A. B. Covey, with the Campbell Water company. They were "aided and abetted" by other members whose labors were not so much in evidence.

The reels picturing scenes in California and the old Missions were very pretty, and the comedy like many of the type.

There were several very good numbers on the vaudeville program, by local talent, the opening one being selections by the Mervin Keesling family orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Keesling and their four children, playing trombone, piano, cornet, saxaphone, flute and bass drum gave three remarkable numbers which were thoroly enjoyed.

Annie McManus, student in the upper grades of the grammar school, did some good rythmic acrobatics.

Antone Bonaccorso, who is heard over the radio frequently, sang two pretty ballads, and, with his brother Joe, two duets, one a comic that created considerable amusement.

Phillip La Barbera, another radio singer, rendered two old time favorites and he was one of the characters in the humorous skit put on by the fire company, where he sang another popular song.

Al Covey doubled in the skit for G. E. Farley, as a real estate agent, and for R. H. Hyde, insurance solicitor. Harry White was the larger half of the fire company, and Ed. Genasci impersonated George Barnes. It was a clever little number and gave the audience a hearty laugh.

The accordion numbers by Luis Ghioro and others were repeatedly encored, as were several of the other performers. Dewey and Mack did some excellent tumbling. Miss Storries, a song and dance turn, and members of the California Marcus Review put on a variety of numbers.

Watson's orchestra furnished music thruout the vaudeville, also playing several specials between acts. Their leader acted as master of ceremonies.

A full house greeted the promoters and with other tickets sold bore evidence of the interest of the community in the project.

CELEBRATION NOTES

The reception committee was much in evidence both in the registration and service of refreshments. Thanks to these faithful workers.

Sea Scouts arranged an attractive exhibit at the celebration. Some of their crew served as ushers.

Camp Fire Girls were everywhere with their wares.

Some of the old gang were very much scarce at the ball game. Hence the score.

Fire Chief Page of San Jose was on hand at the show to give the local fire eaters the glad hand and wish them success.

It didn't seem natur'l without them endmen jokes and stunts.

The historical booklet proved to be quite in demand and still is. It is being mailed to many friends in the east.

The speaker committee did its stuff. Percy Dunlap went up and brought Dr. Bertola down and E. R. Kennedy took her home. Their wives chaperoned their trips.

The firemen's show cleared over $200.

130's Win

The big crowd that saw the intensely exciting basketball game Old Settlers' day, between Campbell's 130 team and the boys from Mountain View, went wild as the game neared its close. At no point in the game was either team leading by a safe margin, and up to a minute or so before the gong sounded, signifying the end of the fourth quarter, Mountain View was leading and seemingly going to win by a score of 13 to 11. Tony Lavoi, Campbell's star running guard, got his hands on the ball somewhere near the center of the court and, as the crowd was yelling for a field goal and holding its breath in turns, he made a beautiful shot that brought the game to a 13-13 tie.

Another quarter of gripping basketball was played and every minute was as exciting as the minute before. Another field goal from Gardner turned the Campbell fans wild, but Mountain View got a pair of free shots from a foul enacted by a Campbell player and made one of the two good. But try as they did, they couldn't gain another point, so the best game of the year on Campbell high's court went to the home team by a score of 14 to 15.

This win placed Campbell in the lead of 130 teams in the Santa Clara Athletic league.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Inman celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary at their home on North Central avenue last Friday, with their immediate family present.

GO-TO-BED STORIES

By Farmer Smith

The Rabbitville school bell stopped ringing on Febuary 21st and Miss Rabbit, the teacher, arose from her seat and said: "Today we will have a short session and celebrate Washington's Birthday. Bobbie Rabbit, you may come to the board."

Bobbie did as he was told and then looked at his teacher.

"Please write 'cat'." Bobbie wrote CAT.

"Pretty good," said Miss Rabbit.

"Pretty good nothing—it's PERFECT!" snapped Bobbie.

"That's correct, my dear, you must stand up for what you know is right in this world."

Finally Miss Rabbit rang the bell. "We will have our George Washington hour," she said. "Theophilus Rabbit, you may come up and say a few words about George Washington."

Theophilus started to go on the platform. Suddenly he slipped and fell sprawling on the floor. All the Rabbits began to titter.

"My dear children," began Miss Rabbit, "this should be a lesson for you all. George Washington laughed at difficulties as people laughed at him. When he fell down, he got up and kept on going. Come, Theophilus, and let's hear what you have to say."

The Rabbit began: "When George Washington wanted to make the flag of the United States of America he went to Betsy Ross and asked her to help him. He said we should have a six pointed star on our flag, but she said we could make a five pointed star with one cut of the scissors."

There was a loud clapping as the speaker stepped from the platform.

"Of course you know, dear children," said Miss Rabbit, "that the stars and the blue on our flag come from the stars in a blue heaven, and the bars from the beautiful rainbow. It is indeed a wonderful and very beautiful flag. Can any one tell us more about it?"

"It has never been defeated!" said Billie Rabbit.

"Fine!" exclaimed Miss Rabbit.

Rhymers to Royalty

There seems to be no authentic record of the origin of "Poet-Laureate of England" but it is recorded that Richard Coeur de Lion had a "versificator regis," a development of the practice of earlier times, when minstrels and versifiers were part of the retinue of the king.

A FEW ETERNAL Questions

To wives, especially

(Husbands may read between the lines)

Is your husband thoughtful enough to carry life insurance for your benefit?

How much? Enough to educate the children, give them a start, and keep you fairly comfortable for life?

Would you enjoy the prospect of having to invest this money some day so as to give you a steady income?

Or would you be glad to know that your husband had arranged his life insurance so that the responsibility for the sound investment of the proceeds would be placed on our shoulders rather than on yours?

And, at the same time, wouldn't it reassure you to know that, if special needs arose, part of the principal would be promptly available for your use?

Has your husband, to your knowledge, looked into this arrangement of a Life Insurance Trust?

Why not encourage him to come in and find out more about this excellent modern plan which so many of our thoughtful business men are adopting?

What is the "Carcass" of a TIRE?

You can't see it—yet it largely decides how long a tire will last.

THE "carcass" of a tire is the body composed of plies of cord fabric. It is continually being flexed, bent and punched between the road and the wheel.

It has to be built of elastic cords, cords that can stretch and "come back" repeatedly. The more elastic these cords and the more stretch they stand before breaking — the more miles of trouble-free service you get.

Repairing all kinds of tires, as we do, has shown us the great superiority of the SUPER-TWIST cords used in Goodyear tires. SUPER-TWIST cords — patented by Goodyear — stretch 60% further than regular cord, flex and recover almost limitlessly. They make early blowouts, sidewall breaks, etc., almost a curiosity. Even after long service, when an ordinary "good" tire would be broken down, the average SUPERTWIST body is still lively, sound and worth repairing or retreading.

It hurts the repair business to sell Goodyears, but it makes us a lot of friends.

Ar. Guadalajara	Thur.	5:35 p.m.
Ar. Mexico City	Fri.	9:[illegible] a.m.

On alternate days a local train operates from Nogales making possible short stopovers between trains.

Old Mexico—the little-known, the little understood. A land of mystery, romance and vast antiquity. Yet [illegible] as new as tomorrow. [illegible] West Coast!

[illegible] comfortable trip down the [illegible] Coast will seem a swift pe[illegible] country foreign lands, so [illegible] are its contrasts. At Mag[illegible] touched early in your jour[illegible]ney, you see the San Francisco Xavier Mission built in 1690, an early link in the California chain. Many other Mexican Missions, no less than the famous cathedrals, offer the traveler an interesting study.

On down the coast, at times through jungles that will suddenly give way to fields of sugar cane, tomatoes, peas, corn or bananas; or your train will climb mile-high to a plateau where rise cragged mountains and volcanoes. Many miles of road-bed evidence as difficult an engineering feat as the world has ever seen. You'll pause at quaint cities, such as Mazatlan and Guaymas, nestling peacefully to the edge of land-locked harbors. The blue, tropical sea, the long sweep of sandy beach dotted with cocoanut palms make a stopover difficult to resist.

Phone Service To Gatos Better

It is now just as easy to telephone to Los Gatos as it is to call a Campbell telephone number. This is the result of the establishment of number service in the Campbell exchange of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company yesterday. D. A. Manning, manager of the telephone company here, in explaining the new service, said number service will make it possible to make a telephone call between these two cities with the same ease that you make a local call. When you telephone from Campbell to Los Gatos or from Los Gatos to Campbell, give the answering operator the desired telephone number and hold the line as on a local call. Just remember, to enjoy this service calls must always be placed by telephone number. Therefore it is always advisable to look in the telephone directory first to insure that you are calling the correct number. If you cannot obain the number of the called party's telephone, call the information operator, then give the number to the local operator.

Athlete Talks To Kiwanians

Carl Field officiated most successfully for the "kitty" at Tuesday's luncheon and thereby hangs the profit.

Miss Annette Merrill, accompanied by Miss Vera Nichols, sang two numbers, giving those in attendance a taste of the coming opera, "Pinafore" by the high school.

Fred Saxon, husky driller of the San Jose Y.M.C.A. gym, gave a talk on the desirability of moderate, consistent, enjoyable daily exercise. The spasmodic strenuous exercise of an occasion is often very harmful and rarely beneficial. Business men are too prone to let the needed physical activity be crowded out by time when a few minutes properly devoted may add years to a man's usefulness in his world.

Gene Grattan, another athlete of considerable renown, and director of the local sea scouts, will speak on his work with them.

Mark Purmort and Lon Shelley, two good land scouts, will act as ring master and cup bearer to the crew Tuesday next.

As this is the season for intensive attendance campaigning, President Ed Wiesendanger urged each man to do his bit to boost the percentage.

Thirty-Fourth Anniversary

Of interest to many in this community it is the fact that today is the thirty-fourth anniversary of the opening by C. H. Whitman of his store in Campbell. It will be recalled that Mr. Whitman first had his store across the street from what is now G. E. Farley's real estate office, building several years later on the site of his present store.

Get Sunshine and Rest

Horses and mules working in coal mines retain their health because usually they are given a sufficient amount of exercise and rest in the sunshine to counteract the time spent in the mines.

Lighthouse Innovation

In 1862 an arc lamp was installed in a lighthouse at Dungeness, England, and supplied with current from a cumbrous magneto-electric machine. This was the first regular electric light in service.

Still Hunt Heads

Head-hunting formerly was practiced by all the Malay races and survives even today among the Dyacks of Borneo. The Jivaops, South American Indians, have the peculiar custom of shrinking heads. These have reached an almost prohibitive price because of the increasing tourist demand for the grewsome souvenirs.

There is no standing still . . .

During the past two years 6000 switchboards have been reconstructed in the larger cities served by the Bell System to enable the operators to give a more direct and faster service.

Previously in towns where there were more than one central office, your operator would hold you on the line while she got the operator at the other central office on an auxiliary pair of wires. Now she connects directly with the other central office and repeats the number you want to the other operator. You hear her do this so that you can correct her if there is any mistake.

This little change cost millions of dollars. Likewise, it saves millions of minutes a day for the public and it has cut down the number of errors by a third.

It is one of the many improvements in methods and appliances which are constantly being introduced to give direct, high-speed telephone service. There is no standing still in the Bell System. Better and better telephone service at the lowest cost is the goal.
